

ABSTRACT

This invention relates to a novel protein (INSP052), herein identified as an immunoglobulin domain-containing cell surface recognition molecule and to the use of this proteins and nucleic acid sequences from the encoding gene in the diagnosis, prevention and treatment of disease.

- 5 The invention also relates to the identification of the extracellular domain of INSP052.